

College/University Name	Blank entries indicate that the school does superscore. Otherwise, the school has another policy.
Albion College
Amherst College
Babson College
Baylor University
Bates	If a student chooses to submit ACT scores, we look at the highest composite score and highest scores in each subsection.
Beloit College
Boston College
Boston University	The Board does not superscore the ACT; however, if you send in scores from multiple test dates, the Board of Admissions will consider the scores from each of the subcategories, noting the highest scores achieved for each. For this reason, we encourage applicants to submit scores from all ACT test dates as well.
Bowdoin College	Applicants also have the option to select some test types and not others for review (for example, a student might choose to include SAT Subject Test scores but not an SAT score). These choices are communicated via the Bowdoin Supplement. Bowdoin will not review selected sections of an SAT or an ACT score (for example, just the Science portion of the ACT). If an applicant chooses to include scores for a specific test type, Bowdoin will review the complete score for that test type.

Brandeis University
Butler University
California Institute of Technology	When we review your application we have all of your test scores available to us. We will look at all of your scores, paying particular attention to the general pattern of scores and emphasizing the highest score for each individual exam.
California State University System	Does not include the University of California, but the other schools in the system.
Colby College
College of Charleston	We do not superscore the ACT for scholarship purposes. However, we do want all ACT scores to be sent to us so that if superscoring would help the student in the admissions process, we can determine that.
Colorado College	Yes, we do superscore the ACT and/or SAT (both by subject and overall score). Regarding our testing policy, we require that applicants submit either the SAT Reasoning Test or ACT test, or elect a third option (the Flexible Testing option) including three exams of the applicant's choice chosen from a list of acceptable exams: Three Flexible Testing Options <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The College Board SAT Reasoning Test or <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 2. The American College Testing (ACT) Assessment Test

	or 3. Three exams of your choice, which must include at least one quantitative test from Category A, at least one verbal or writing test in Category B, and a third test of the student's choice among those tests listed in Category C.
Connecticut College
Cornell University	We don't necessarily calculate a new composite score, but we always utilize your best combination of scores – even if they are from different dates.
Denison University
DePauw University
Dickinson College	For the ACT, the composite score is given the most weight.
Drexel University
Duke University	For students who choose to submit the ACT with writing, Duke will consider the highest composite score and highest subscores on each section, regardless of test date, but will not recalculate the composite score. Students who take the ACT are not required to submit SAT or SAT Subject Test scores.
Duquesne University
Eckerd College
Elon University
Florida Atlantic University
Florida State University
Georgia Tech	We use all three portions of the SAT and/or the three equivalent parts of the ACT, as outlined below. We do not use

	the ACT Composite score nor the Science or Reading score. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • SAT Critical Reading = ACT English • SAT Math = ACT Math • SAT Writing = ACT Combined English/Writing Only your highest section scores from either test will be viewed in the evaluation process. Additionally, your highest combination of scores may come from tests taken on different dates. For example, your high test scores may include SAT Critical Reading from March, ACT Math from October and ACT Combined English/Writing from December. Each time you submit new scores to us, we will update your record with your highest scores.
Gettysburg College
Hamilton College	Our applicants are best served by being provided with a variety of ways to meet our standardized test requirement. Millsaps College
NCAA Clearinghouse
New York University	We do not super-score the ACT, but we will see the individual subscores in addition to the overall composite. We can also see test scores from multiple test dates, so while your highest composite is ultimately what we will use to evaluate you, we can see whatever you send us.
Northeastern University
North Carolina State University
Olin College
Pepperdine University
Pomona College	Consistent with the ACT standards for acceptable use of ACT test scores, the admissions office will record the test date reflecting the highest composite score. We will consider all sittings and having all test scores from all dates permits the admissions deans further consideration of peak or higher sub-scores from other test dates as skill sets and performance are evaluated in our review process. Please be

	aware that Pomona requires a full testing history, so if you have taken any components of the SAT and the ACT, you are required to submit the results from all test dates.
Purdue University	If you submit multiple ACT tests that you have taken, we always take the highest score from each of the sections and we take the highest composite.
Regis University
Rhode Island School of Design	They do superscore although they do not refer to it as such.
Rice University	Rice does not superscore the ACT. We only record the composite score. That being said, we do ask applicants to send all of their ACT test results. The reason for this is that we consider subscores in our admission committee discussions. If a student has received high subscores on any of the ACT tests they have taken, we will discuss those higher scores in our discussions. It is to the applicant's advantage to submit all ACT test results.
Rochester Institute of Technology
Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology
Scripps College	We take the best overall composite score as the student's "official" score and review all the subscores.
Spring Hill College
St. John's University
Stanford University	For the ACT, we will focus on the highest Composite and the highest Combined English/Writing scores from all test sittings. We will also consider individual subscores.

University of Connecticut	We encourage students to take the SAT and/or ACT more than once. We will accept the highest scores from your combined test dates.
University of Dayton
University of Delaware
University of Denver
University of Georgia
University of Illinois	We do what I like to call sub-super scoring where we take the highest overall composite and each highest individual scores even if it was on a lower composite exam. We will always use this to the student's advantage. This is why we ask all scores to be sent to our office.
University of Louisiana – Lafayette	We only take the highest subscore from each test to determine your eligibility.
University of Maryland
University of Mary Washington	We do not superscore the ACT, however we will see all of your scores.
University of Massachusetts, Amherst
University of North Carolina
University of North Texas	For admissions requirements, we do superscore. Now for scholarship requirements we do not.

University of Pittsburgh
University of Puget Sound	We consider the Composite, English, and Math sections of the ACT, and we do Superscore.
University of Rochester
University of South Florida
University of Tampa
University of Tennessee
